

International Maternal and Child Health (IMCH)
and Forum for Africa Studies cordially invite you to a seminar with Prof. Ellen Gruenbaum

What could Medical Anthropology contribute to the field of Global Reproductive Health?

Monday 29 October, 13.00-14.30

venue: Signifikansen

IMCH, Dag Hammarskjölds väg 14 B

Ellen Gruenbaum is a medical anthropologist and head of Department of Anthropology at Purdue University. She is known for her long-term cultural anthropology research on female genital cutting and health issues in Sudan. She is the author of The Female Circumcision Controversy: An Anthropological Perspective.