ROUND-TABLE

The Resurgence of Coups d'état in West Africa?

In recent years, we have seen a resurgence of military take-over in many countries, including Burkina Faso, Guinea, Mali, and Chad. Simultaneously, incumbent leaders often modify or circumvent the constitutional limits of presidential terms. In both cases, such non-constitutional taking of power raises questions of democracy and the rule of law. In this round-table, 2022 Claude Ake Visiting Chair Professor Kwesi Aning makes opening remarks, before engaging a debate with three West Africa specialists.
